

Nick Ugoalah Introduction:

“I’ve got a lot to be grateful for he says: for not seeing my mother for 17 years, for growing up in a poor Nigerian village, for all the adversity in my family and childhood, for having a hard angry father, for being separated from my brother and sister, for growing up in foster homes, for not coming from privilege, for not having money growing up, for not making my varsity wrestling team in my first year. Oh yea, I’m also grateful for the Commonwealth games gold medal in wrestling and the eight years I served my country on the National Team.”

It’s not what happens to us, it’s the choices we make with the opportunities given to us.

It’s the choices we make with the opportunities given to us.

“As a man advances confidently in the direction of his dreams he will be met with a success unexpected in common hours.”
